SUNSET ON WASKESIU LAKE

At eventide, just as the sun is dropping below the horizon, and the cool evening breeze gently ripples the lake's surface, there is no more entrancing spot than Waskesiu Lake, tourist centre of Prince Albert National Park.

WALKING AN EASY PORTAGE

Three travellers are shown here negotiating a portage through a lane of tall spruce and poplar, between Kingsmere and Clare Lakes, Prince Albert National Park. Clare Lake is 200 yards south of Kingsmere, the home of the moose.

WHERE WORRIES SLIP AWAY

Far from dusty highways and maddening crowds, these vacationists find refreshing rest in the beauties of Kingsmere Lake, 22 miles from Waskesiu beach.

BIG POINT BAY, WASKESIU

This view shows the waters of Waskesiu receding from a lonely stretch of shore on Big Point Bay. With canoes drawn up on the sand, within a few yards of lofty poplars that throw their branches upward toward an azure sky, the visitors are exploring the lakeside woods.

The Utmost in Food Enjoyment

There is always something mighty good waiting here for you to eat tender roasts, delicious vegetables served in the most appetizing ways, creamy, fluffy potatoes, piquant salads and dainty desserts

*Have breakfast, lunch or dinner with us.
You'll be delighted with the excellent food,
the quick service, unfailing courtesy and unusually reasonable prices.*

We welcome visitors and National Park guests in particular. You'll never be disappointed in our meals.

A VIEW FROM KING ISLAND

From here is the only wooded island in Harker Lake. From which this picture is taken, is a delightful view of the water, the mountains, and the forest that grows in a deep of blue water from distant shores.

PARADISE FOR BATHERS

Here is only one of the myriad of sandy beaches for which the dozens of lakes in Prince Albert National Park are famous. This is Ottau Lake Beach, the bay and the island.

SOVEREIGN OF WASKESIU

King Island, on the right, imposingly thrusts its crown of forest plumage from Waskesiu in such a way as to give visitors to the island a commanding view of the surrounding landscape.
